

Advice 22-2013 of the Scientific Committee of the FASFC on the evaluation of a project of royal decree modifying the royal decree of March 7th, 2007 concerning the control of contagious bee diseases

The Scientific Committee has assessed a project of royal decree modifying the royal decree of March 7th, 2007 concerning the control of contagious bee diseases.

The Scientific Committee agrees in general with the proposed changes. However, varroasis is a major cause of an increased mortality rate of bee colonies in recent years. It is therefore essential that the control of this disease is continued to improve the situation in the field. The Scientific Committee makes also several recommendations.
